The following bibliographies are for the study of Reformed theology by the seminars of the Foundation for Reformed Theology. We ask that they not be used for other purposes without written permission from the Foundation and that credit be given to the Foundation.

Dr. and Mrs. John H. Leith established the Fund for the Explication and Application of Reformed Theology in 1982. Through it, Dr. Leith initiated the ministerial study seminar program for his former students in the early 1990s. The Foundation became the successor to the Fund in 1998. Dr. Leith had the bibliographies for topics 1–25 in place by 2002.

Bibliographies for topics 26 and following were added after Dr. Leith’s death, and selections from his writings were added to some earlier topics. “Introduction to John Haddon Leith” was added as required first reading for new seminars. After that, any of these topics may be chosen. All of the “Seminar Readings” in each bibliography are to be read for a seminar.

These are the only bibliographies approved for our seminars. While other topics may be good and useful in and of themselves, only those groups which study these will be considered seminars of the Foundation, and only those seminars will have their expenses reimbursed.

This is a work in progress. Some of the information is not bibliographically complete. Attempts are being made to correct that, and we would welcome any input you may have. Internet links are being added, both for electronic versions of texts and for sources from which to obtain texts. Efforts are being made to review these selections and to update information as needed.

In the Appendix at the end of this document, links have been added for seminary libraries, on-line resources, and bookstores. We have no control over these sites. These links have been added for your convenience. If you encounter a problem, let us know so we can remove the link.

The content of these bibliographies, the selection and support of seminar leaders, and the approval of seminar locations fall under the purview of the Program Committee.

INTRODUCTION TO JOHN HADDON LEITH

Seminar Readings

   This book helps set forth the Reformed tradition as understood by the Foundation and as the Foundation seeks to promote it.

   This book intends to articulate the unique message of the Christian faith.

   This book is an excellent statement of the nature and practice of the Christian pastoral ministry. By saying what the church is to be and to do, it also says what the minister is to be and to do. In many ways, this sets forth the program of the Foundation.

   This book intends to set forth the basic doctrine of the Christian faith in clear and understandable language.

Supplementary Readings

   This introduction was written for young people in a communicant’s class. It was later used in the denomination’s Sunday School curriculum. It has also been used for adult classes and officer training.

This book mounts a sharp critique of the church and its seminaries; to date, the charges have gone unanswered.

These writings, including sermons, articles, addresses, and essays, span six decades. They are not readily available otherwise.

5. REFORMED PIETY

Seminar Readings

Your seminar may choose to read this from Elsie Ann McKee’s translation of the 1541 French edition of the Institutes, listed in the Supplementary Readings below.

Note: This final part volume of Barth’s Dogmatics, on baptism, constitutes the second of five sections in the later and larger though still fragmentary publication of Barth’s other lectures on the Christian life listed immediately below. See note there for a suggested order of reading.

Note: This later publication of fragments of Barth’s lectures on the Christian life surrounds the earlier publication of one section of his work on baptism listed immediately above. You may wish to read from these lectures first, pp. i–xv and 1–46, then the part volume on baptism, pp. v–xii and 1–213, and finally from these lectures, pp. 49–292.

19. AUGUSTINE’S INTERPRETIVE FRAME OF REFERENCE

Seminar Readings

While many English translations and editions of Augustine’s City of God are available and might usefully be consulted, this one has been recommended as a good one, and it would be helpful for all seminar participants use it for ease of page references in discussion. See “Arrangement and Contents of the City of God,” pp. lxi–lxiii, for an overview of the whole. Read Part I, Book 1, Preface, pp. 5–6, for a reference to James 4:6, “God resists the proud, but he gives grace to the humble,” which provides Augustine’s own key to the basis of the distinction he makes throughout between the two cities.

Seminars which have read this topic have suggested reading this biography first in order to establish a framework within which to read and discuss the other works. It is also suggested that all seminar participants use this new edition and read the “Epilogue,” pp. 439–520, first, before reading the main body of the work.

It may be helpful to understanding the whole to seek and note first several articulations of the meaning of saeculum, as on pp. xxii, 71, 102, 133, and 154.

36. THE NATURE AND PRACTICE OF THE CHRISTIAN PASTORAL MINISTRY

Seminar Readings

In that the Christian ministry is a ministry of the Word, see first this classic text on reading, learning, studying, interpreting, preaching, and teaching the Bible.

This book is an excellent statement of the nature and practice of the Christian pastoral ministry. By saying what the church is to be and to do, it also says what the minister is to be and to do. In many ways, this sets forth the program of the Foundation.

In that the Christian pastor leads worship, see this contemporary statement of the nature and practice of Reformed worship.

Supplementary Readings

This book mounts a sharp critique of the church and its seminaries; to date, the charges have gone unanswered.

Anecdotal.

This book is intentionally ecumenical, so that some of its understanding of ministry lies beyond a Reformed understanding of ministry.

This book reworks some of the ground covered in Purves’s Reconstructing Pastoral Theology, though in a nontechnical manner (p. 10). This is a companion volume to The Resurrection of Ministry.

As the title indicates, a review of the history of theology about the nature and practice of the Christian pastoral ministry.

This is a companion volume to The Crucifixion of Ministry.

38. INFLUENTIAL TWENTIETH CENTURY THEOLOGIANS

Seminar Readings

   Chapters 1–3 and chapters 6 on Karl Barth, 7 on Reinhold Niebuhr, and 8 on Paul Tillich are especially helpful for this bibliography. [133 pp.]

Karl Barth (1886–1968) was perhaps the most influential and important theologian for the Reformed and Presbyterian family of churches in the twentieth century.

   This is a biography of Karl Barth.

   This is a first volume of brief sermons and prayers that he delivered at the request of Martin Schwarz, the chaplain in the Prison of Basel in the Swiss university town where Barth was professor from 1935 until his death.
   “Saved by Grace,” Ephesians 2:5, 14 August 1955, pp. 35–42. [8 pp.]
   Compare Tillich’s sermon, “You Are Accepted,” listed below.

   This is a second volume of sermons and prayers that he delivered at the Prison of Basel.

Reinhold Niebuhr (1892–1971) was a North American theologian, ethicist, and professor at Union Theological Seminary in New York. He was a leading public thinker in the United States, who had wide influence in North American church and society as well as on foreign policy. He won the Presidential Medal of Freedom in 1964.

   This is a biography of Reinhold Niebuhr.

Paul Tillich (1886–1965) was a German-American philosophical theologian and a Lutheran pastor, who came to this country in 1934 and taught at Union Theological Seminary in New York until 1955. He is perhaps best known for his “method of correlation” in which he seeks to show how the Christian symbols of revelation provide answers to human problems of existence, interpreted by European existentialist philosophy.

This is a biography of Paul Tillich.

In addition to his technical academic works, he wrote this for a general audience.

In addition to his technical academic works, he wrote this for a general audience.

He preached these sermons in the chapel of Union Theological Seminary.

Compare Barth’s sermon, “Saved by Grace,” listed above.

John Leith was a pastor in Southern Presbyterian Churches in Georgia, Tennessee, and Auburn, Alabama. In 1959 he became Pemberton Professor of Historical Theology at Union Theological...
Seminary in Richmond, Virginia, and established the Foundation for Reformed Theology to encourage groups of Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) ministers to gather yearly in friendship and to read Reformed and historical theologians helpful for pastors to become more effective in preaching, teaching, and pastoral care. The following are some of the writings that form the basis of the Foundation and that articulate the Reformed tradition that he entrusted to us to promote and to help perpetuate.

An important brief section of a history chapter that will offer a guide to the selections from his writings below. [16 pp.]

This includes a brief biography of John H. Leith.
“Christ and Human Differences,” pp. 20–25. [6 pp.]
“The Church as the People of God,” pp. 81–88. [8 pp.]
“Remembering the Protestant Reformation,” pp. 97–102. [6 pp.]
“Theological Perspectives on Economics,” pp. 240–244. [5 pp.]

Supplementary Readings

Examines topics in theology to 1960 as it addresses (1) authority and the Bible, (2) the basis of Christian ethics, (3) the meaning of Jesus Christ, and (4) the church.

An encyclopedia in one volume with articles by experts on theologians.

Key writings from the major theologians in the previous volume.
