

FOUNDATION FOR REFORMED THEOLOGY

BIBLIOGRAPHIES FOR SEMINARS

The following bibliographies are for the study of Reformed theology by the seminars of the Foundation for Reformed Theology. We ask that they not be used for other purposes without written permission from the Foundation and that credit be given to the Foundation.

Dr. and Mrs. John H. Leith established the Fund for the Explication and Application of Reformed Theology in 1982. Through it, Dr. Leith initiated the ministerial study seminar program for his former students in the early 1990s. The Foundation became the successor to the Fund in 1998. Dr. Leith had the bibliographies for topics 1–25 in place by 2002.

Bibliographies for topics 26 and following were added after Dr. Leith's death, and selections from his writings were added to some earlier topics. "Introduction to John Haddon Leith" was added as required first reading for new seminars. After that, any of these topics may be chosen. All of the "Seminar Readings" in each bibliography are to be read for a seminar.

These are the only bibliographies approved for our seminars. While other topics may be good and useful in and of themselves, only those groups which study these will be considered seminars of the Foundation, and only those seminars will have their expenses reimbursed.

This is a work in progress. Some of the information is not bibliographically complete. Attempts are being made to correct that, and we would welcome any input you may have. Internet links are being added, both for electronic versions of texts and for sources from which to obtain texts. Efforts are being made to review these selections and to update information as needed.

In the Appendix at the end of this document, links have been added for seminary libraries, on-line resources, and bookstores. We have no control over these sites. These links have been added for your convenience. If you encounter a problem, let us know so we can remove the link.

The content of these bibliographies, the selection and support of seminar leaders, and the approval of seminar locations fall under the purview of the Program Committee.

INTRODUCTION TO JOHN HADDON LEITH

Seminar Readings

Leith, John H. An Introduction to the Reformed Tradition: A Way of Being the Christian Community, revised edition. Atlanta: John Knox, 1981. 264 pp.

This book helps set forth the Reformed tradition as understood by the Foundation and as the Foundation seeks to promote it.

———. The Reformed Imperative: What the Church Has to Say That No One Else Can Say. Philadelphia: Westminster, 1988. 152 pp.

This book intends to articulate the unique message of the Christian faith.

———. From Generation to Generation: The Renewal of the Church According to Its Own Faith and Practice. Louisville, KY: Westminster John Knox, 1990. 223 pp.

This book is an excellent statement of the nature and practice of the Christian pastoral ministry. By saying what the church is to be and to do, it also says what the minister is to be and to do. In many ways, this sets forth the program of the Foundation.

———. Basic Christian Doctrine. Louisville, KY: Westminster John Knox, 1993. xviii + 350 pp.

This book intends to set forth the basic doctrine of the Christian faith in clear and understandable language.

Supplementary Readings

Leith, John H. The Church: A Believing Fellowship, revised edition. Atlanta: John Knox, 1981; Eugene, OR: Wipf & Stock, 2011. viii + 196 pp.

This introduction was written for young people in a communicant's class. It was later used in the denomination's Sunday School curriculum. It has also been used for adult classes and officer training.

———. Assembly at Westminster: Reformed Theology in the Making. Richmond, VA: John Knox, 1973; Eugene, OR: Wipf & Stock, 2008. 127 pp.

———. Reformed Theology and the Style of Evangelism. Atlanta, GA: Presbyterian Church in the United States, 1973; Richmond, VA: Union Theological Seminary, circa 1989; in Pilgrimage of a Presbyterian: Collected Shorter Writings, edited by Charles E. Raynal, Louisville, KY: Geneva, 2001; Eugene, OR: Wipf & Stock, 2010. vi + 19 pp.

———. John Calvin's Doctrine of the Christian Life. With a foreword by Albert C. Outler. Ph.D. diss., Yale University, 1949; Louisville, KY: Westminster John Knox, 1989; Eugene, OR: Wipf & Stock, 2010. 230 pp.

———. Crisis in the Church: The Plight of Theological Education. Louisville, KY: Westminster John Knox, 1997. xiii + 125 pp.

This book mounts a sharp critique of the church and its seminaries; to date, the charges have gone unanswered.

———. Pilgrimage of a Presbyterian: Collected Shorter Writings. Edited by Charles E. Raynal. Louisville, KY: Geneva, 2001. xx + 363 pp.

These writings, including sermons, articles, addresses, and essays, span six decades. They are not readily available otherwise.

Leith, John H., ed. Creeds of the Churches: A Reader in Christian Doctrine from the Bible to the Present, third edition. Atlanta: John Knox, 1982. x + 736 pp.

Calvin, John. The Christian Life, ed. by John H. Leith. San Francisco: Harper & Row, 1984; Eugene, OR: Wipf & Stock, 2009. xv + 111 pp.

19. AUGUSTINE’S INTERPRETIVE FRAME OF REFERENCE

Seminar Readings

Augustine. “Part II,” Books 11–22. In Concerning the City of God Against the Pagans, translated by Henry Bettenson, pp. 427–1091. London: Penguin Books, first published 1467, this translation 1972 with introduction by David Knowles, reissued with new introduction 1984, reissued with new introduction, notes, and chronology by G. R. Evans 2003. lxxiii + 1097 pp.

While many English translations and editions of Augustine’s City of God are available and might usefully be consulted, this one has been recommended as a good one, and it would be helpful for all seminar participants use it for ease of page references in discussion. See “Arrangement and Contents of the City of God,” pp. lxi–lxiii, for an overview of the whole. Read Part I, Book 1, Preface, pp. 5–6, for a reference to James 4:6, “God resists the proud, but he gives grace to the humble,” which provides Augustine’s own key to the basis of the distinction he makes throughout between the two cities.

Brown, Peter R. L. Augustine of Hippo: A Biography, new edition with an epilogue. Berkeley and Los Angeles, CA: University of California Press, 2000. xiii + 548 pp.

Seminars which have read this topic have suggested reading this biography first in order to establish a framework within which to read and discuss the other works. It is also suggested that all seminar participants use this new edition and read the “Epilogue,” pp. 439–520, first, before reading the main body of the work.

Markus, R[obert] A. Saeculum: History and Society in the Theology of St. Augustine, second edition. Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, 1988. xxvi + 254 pp.

It may be helpful to understanding the whole to seek and note first several articulations of the meaning of saeculum, as on pp. xxii, 71, 102, 133, and 154.

21. PURITAN STATEMENTS OF REFORMED THEOLOGY

Seminar Readings

Perkins, William. The Art of Prophesying.
On preaching.

Cotton, John. Christ the Fountain of Life.
On conversion.

Preston, John. Life Eternal.
On salvation.

Ames, William. Medulla Sacrae Theologiae.
Systematic theology.

Bunyan, John. The Pilgrim's Progress.
The classic allegory of Christian Life.

Milton, John. Paradise Lost.
The epic poem on the Fall.

The Bunyan and Milton are readily available. The Perkins and Cotton are perhaps the best pieces. They are readable and available in reprints or in anthologies. The Ames and Preston are also reprinted but not as available. (Ames is dry and scholastic.)

Supplementary Readings

Collinson, Patrick. The Elizabethan Puritan Movement.
A very sound overall history of early English Puritanism and its theology.

Hambrick-Stowe, Charles E. The Practice of Piety.
Excellent study of Puritan devotional practices.

Hall, David D. The Faithful Shepherd.
On the Puritan idea of ministry and preaching.

29. THE READING AND PREACHING OF THE SCRIPTURES IN THE WORSHIP OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Seminar Readings

Old, Hughes Oliphant. “The Ministry of the Word.” In Worship Reformed According to Scripture, revised and expanded edition, Chapter 6, pp. 59–90. Louisville, KY: Westminster John Knox, 2002.

See this first for an overview of the whole.

Chapter 3, “A ‘New Breed’ of Presbyterians,” pp. 87–172, articulates well the kind of expository preaching the Foundation would like to promote.

Note: This may be too much to read for one week. We would suggest reading the overview and volumes 1, 2, and 4 in their entirety and volume 7, pp. 87–172, as main texts, supplementing that with selections from the other volumes.

36. THE NATURE AND PRACTICE OF THE CHRISTIAN PASTORAL MINISTRY

Seminar Readings

Augustine. On Christian Teaching. Translated with an Introduction and Notes by R. P. H. Green. Oxford: Oxford University Press, 1997. xxvi + 168 pp.

In that the Christian ministry is a ministry of the Word, see first this classic text on reading, learning, studying, interpreting, preaching, and teaching the Bible.

Calvin, John. “The Doctors and Ministers of the Church, Their Election and Office.” In Calvin: Institutes of the Christian Religion, Book IV, Chapter 3 (vol. 2, pp. 1053–1068). Library of Christian Classics, ed. John T. McNeill, vols. 20–21. Philadelphia: Westminster, 1960.

“The Second Helvetic Confession,” Chapter 18, “Of the Ministers of the Church, Their Institution and Duties.” In Book of Confessions. Louisville, KY: Office of the General Assembly, 2016. 5.142–168 (pp. 115–122).

Baxter, Richard. The Reformed Pastor. 1656. Edited by William Brown, 1829. Reprint, Edinburgh, Scotland and Carlisle, Pennsylvania: The Banner of Truth Trust, 1974. 256 pp.

Allen, Diogenes. Temptation. New York: Church Publications, 2004. 160 pp.

Originally published as Between Two Worlds: A Guide for Those Beginning to be Religious. Atlanta, GA: John Knox, 1977. 155 pp. The new edition, Cambridge, Massachusetts: Cowley Publications, 1986, includes an Introduction, pp. v–xi, which seems to have affected the numbering of the pages.

Leith, John H. From Generation to Generation: The Renewal of the Church According to Its Own Faith and Practice. Louisville, KY: Westminster John Knox, 1990. 223 pp.

This book is an excellent statement of the nature and practice of the Christian pastoral ministry. By saying what the church is to be and to do, it also says what the minister is to be and to do. In many ways, this sets forth the program of the Foundation.

Old, Hughes Oliphant. Worship Reformed According to Scripture, revised and expanded edition. Louisville, KY: Westminster John Knox, 2002. xii + 195 pp.

In that the Christian pastor leads worship, see this contemporary statement of the nature and practice of Reformed worship.

Supplementary Readings

Allen, Diogenes. Spiritual Theology: The Theology of Yesterday for Spiritual Help Today. Boston, Massachusetts: Cowley Publications, 1997. 169 pp.

John Leith was a pastor in Southern Presbyterian Churches in Georgia, Tennessee, and Auburn, Alabama. In 1959 he became Pemberton Professor of Historical Theology at Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Virginia, and established the Foundation for Reformed Theology to encourage groups of Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) ministers to gather yearly in friendship and to read Reformed and historical theologians helpful for pastors to become more effective in preaching, teaching, and pastoral care. The following are some of the writings that form the basis of the Foundation and that articulate the Reformed tradition that he entrusted to us to promote and to help perpetuate.

Leith, John H. An Introduction to the Reformed Tradition: A Way of Being the Christian Community, revised edition. Atlanta: John Knox, 1981.

“The Development of Reformed Theology,” pp. 112–127.

An important brief section of a history chapter that will offer a guide to the selections from his writings below. [16 pp.]

Leith, John H. Pilgrimage of a Presbyterian: Collected Shorter Writings. Edited by Charles E. Raynal. Louisville, KY: Geneva, 2001.

“Preface,” pp. xiii–xvii. [5 pp.]

This includes a brief biography of John H. Leith.

“Christ and Human Differences,” pp. 20–25. [6 pp.]

“The Church as the People of God,” pp. 81–88. [8 pp.]

“The City of God and the Nations of Earth,” pp. 89–96. [8 pp.]

“Remembering the Protestant Reformation,” pp. 97–102. [6 pp.]

“The Holy Spirit and the Christian Life,” pp. 115–119. [5 pp.]

“Theological Reflections on the Death Penalty,” pp. 229–239. [11 pp.]

“Theological Perspectives on Economics,” pp. 240–244. [5 pp.]

“The Message of Christian Faith on the Occasion of the Burial of the Dead,” pp. 256–262. [7 pp.]
